News:

- Mistakes Make Your Brain Grow: Did you know that mistakes actually help kids learn more? Use these ideas to encourage your youngster to make the most of their mistakes: Give your child room to “mess up.” You might suspect that masking tape isn’t strong enough to hold the project together. But they will gain more from the experience if they try, fail, and come up with a new solution all by themselves. Help your youngster put mistakes in perspective. Perhaps they forgot to include an important point during the class presentation. Ask them what part went well – maybe the graphics were cool and the classmates seemed interested in the topic. These are some great ways to help your child think critically.
